Subject: Nobel Peace Prize nominee Leonard Paul Kaine

Enclosed: 1. Summary of Awards and Recognitions of Leonard Paul Kaine, Founder /
President of the "Golden Rule Society".
2. Senior Advisors Listing.

Dear Members of the Nobel Peace Prize Committee:

It is a rare opportunity and a distinguished honor to be the Nominator of the Golden Rule Society's Founder and President, Leonard Paul Kaine as a Laureate for the Nobel Peace Prize as indicated in the enclosed references.

Mr. Kaine has selflessly dedicated his time and his efforts as a non-paid volunteer for more than forty-two years in the pursuit of two primary life goals: world peace and improving the lives and the opportunities of people the world over. In over four decades of hard work and total devotion to these goals, he has built an international outreach program espousing the simple yet elegant philosophy that bettering the lives of others is life's greatest reward. Mr. Kaine believes that through the Golden Rule of treating people the way that you want to be treated, we take a significant step closer to world peace.

The vision of a world at peace ironically sprung from Mr. Kaine's experiences as a Navy fighter pilot while flying combat missions over North Vietnam. There, in the midst of the horrible destruction and death on both sides, he envisioned the serenity, the beauty and the great possibility of a world without war, a world at peace and a people, old and young, living a better, more prosperous life.

Following a gallant and distinguished career of service to his nation, Mr. Kaine launched a second career as an airline pilot, but that single, persistent vision continued to reverberate and began to take shape. In 1972, his epiphany finally coalesced; he launched his first major charitable event through a fund-raiser designed to support and benefit the families of 'Prisoners of War' and those service members 'Missing in Action'. This campaign proved extraordinarily successful. It quickly gained national notoriety and has since become the architecture used to design scores of follow-on projects and programs which have resulted in elevating the Golden Rule Society as one of the premiere international non-profit charities.

The success of these initial efforts only energized Mr. Kaine to do more. His exuberance, innovation, and focused dedication have yielded a number of well-earned citations and nominations from local, state and national leadership as detailed in the enclosures. In 2005, Mr. Kaine received the "President's 2005 Volunteer Service Award", along with a Gold Medal and Citation for his charity work. In 2006, Kaine received the "President's Life Time Achievement Award for Volunteer Service", with another Medal and Citation by the President's Council on Service and Civic Participation in recognition and appreciation of his commitment to strengthening our Nation and the world for making a difference through volunteer service. Fittingly, Senator John S. McCain did the honor of pinning on the Presidential Medal. The 2010 Veteran of the Year Award, presented by the U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs, was awarded to him for the stupendous efforts and achievement of the Golden Rule Society. This was one of eight awards from two Congressmen, a State Assemblywoman, and four other Veterans Groups in 2010, based on charitable programs supporting our nation's veterans and their children.

Among all of Mr. Kaine's awards and accolades, perhaps the apex of his lofty achievements came in the form of recognition by the nomination of the 2003 Nobel Peace Prize submitted by Mr. Dave Cox, California's State Assembly Leader. The justification, in part, states, "I know of no one who has done so much for so many for so long a time. I can't imagine anyone, anywhere in the world who is doing more for peace among all the nations than Mr. Kaine. Nor can I imagine anyone more worthy of the Nobel Peace Prize."

His work continues to expand. Mr. Kaine is giving his, and the Golden Rule Society's, full support to the Founder and Chairman of "World Peace One, Mr. Douglas Ivanovich. The work of Mr. Claes Nobel, grandnephew of Alfred Nobel and a director of "World Peace One", paired with the passion and success of Mr. Kaine's titanic efforts, have been infectious to a number of like-minded people. The Golden Rule Society (GRS) is led and managed by a phalanx of highly educated professionals and dedicated leaders with strong ties to the community and other service organizations, all bound by that common vision—a world at peace. It is quite important to point out that these are all non-paid volunteers who allow 100% of the net funds raised by GRS go directly in support of men, women, and children throughout the world and to other non-profit beneficiaries.

Mr. Kaine has devoted more than forty-two years of his life to better the lives of young and old, men and women of all nations and of all walks of life. Through his unwavering commitment and single minded focus, his efforts and actions have touched and improved the lives of millions. Further, in preaching the ways of the Golden Rule, he has immeasurably improved and fostered a mindset conducive to a world at peace.

In keeping with the objectives of Mr. Alfred Nobel's decree that the Peace Prize shall be awarded to the person who shall have done the most or the best work for fraternity between nations, it is my distinguished honor to nominate as Laureate for the Nobel Peace Prize, Mr. Leonard Paul Kaine.

Sincerely,

Scott Peters
